Evaluation and Nominations for the Sixth [REDACTED] Arctic
Indoctrination Course on Economic and Topographical
Intelligence, 4-19 March 1959

1. The proposed program for the subject course has been evaluated in light of the Division's past experience with this course. This course is obviously of considerable value to ORR personnel dealing with problems related to the far north; it is well conceived and presented.

2. There are, however, a few minor changes in time allocation which might be made from the ORR point of view. It is recommended that more time be made available for questions. It is suggested that [REDACTED] reduce the time allocated to serial numbers 9, 34, 38, and 45; and that [REDACTED] increase the time allocated to numbers 35, 36, 37, 46, 47 and 48. It is also suggested the students in the course be given an opportunity to camp out over night to get a better "feel" of the living conditions.

3. It is recommended that at least two slots be made available to the Industrial Division for the next two or three years.
